ProStor InfiniVault Achieves Successful Interoperability with Image Integration Systems' DocuSphere Software

The combination provides a complete, affordable and compliant integrated workflow and document management solution

Perrysburg, OH, Boulder, CO – July 16, 2009 – Image Integration Systems (IIS), a leading document management solutions provider for business process improvement in high volume transaction environments and ProStor Systems, the leading supplier of removable disk storage systems for business backup and archiving, today announced that IIS has successfully completed comprehensive interoperability testing between its DocuSphere® line of business process management (BPM) products and the ProStor InfiniVault® system. The combined solutions enable IIS customers to cost effectively manage and store business records over the long term with automated retention management, compliance and disaster protection.

Customers of IIS DocuSphere software suite will now be able to implement an integrated workflow, document management and compliant archive solution with ProStor InfiniVault as the archive tier of storage. Integrating ProStor InfiniVault enables customers to take advantage of RDX® removable disk technology, which has a 30-year shelf life, and incrementally expand their storage at $0.40/GB.

“In order to realize the full benefits of DocuSphere’s enterprise-wide BPM products, our customers need to be able to properly and cost-effectively store data for longer and longer periods of time. The seamless inclusion of ProStor InfiniVault into the DocuSphere solution provides our customers with automated retention, deletion and access for their critical information,” said Brad White, CEO of Image Integration Systems. “We’re looking forward to deploying DocuSphere with the archiving capability of ProStor InfiniVault and migrating customers that have obsolete technology.”

“IIS’s business process expertise and DocuSphere solutions are an excellent match for ProStor InfiniVault customers who are looking to increase efficiencies and reduce costs,” said Frank Harbist, CEO and president of ProStor Systems. “Combining an integrated document management and imaging tool with our capability to archive data while automating compliance and disaster protection provides a complete solution to our customers.”
